Editorial Column

About Andy And King

Something of a storm broke about our ears this week as a result of the "blast" we delivered against Andy Jacobsen, incumbent running for supervisor, in our editorial column of last issue.

Among the protestants was a friend whose judgment we respect except when we disagree politically.

"A lot of people are mad at you for what you said about Andy," he said.

"Of course, we fully expected that."

"A lot of people are mad at The Pine Cone."

"So what?" we wanted to know.

"So this. We people in Carmel consider The Pine Cone a community paper. It's not yours, it's ours, it belongs to all of us, and when you cut loose like that against a man so many of us think it is vitally important to send back to the board of supervisors, we feel you are breaking faith with us. The least you could do would be to remain neutral."

This stopped us as no other argument could. Nothing is nearer our heart's desire than that Carmel people should claim The Pine Cone as their own. The Pine Cone was here and belonged to Carmel long before we came along.

Very well. . . . Here is the other side of the picture. Andy is honest, and we never said he wasn't. Andy has not done a bad job as supervisor throughout the years he has held the office and if he is re-elected he will probably do a better job as a result of the stimulation of having opposition for the first time in his political career.

King Mederos has promised to do something about our roads. King Mederos has promised to do something about our emergency hospital service. King Mederos has promised to make war on the $16,000 publicity fund the county squanders every year to advertise such highly lucrative enterprises as the Salinas Rodeo and various other stunts that could well pay their own advertising expenses out of their profits. Also, several thousands go to the Mission Trails Association, dedicated to persuading tourists to travel the coast instead of the valley route. King Mederos maintains that until we have accommodations for tourists, we are slightly wasting our money on an advertising campaign to persuade them to come here and then send them away to find a place to sleep in Gilroy.

For the above reasons, and for the reason that we encouraged King when he said he intended to run for supervisor on the shining principal that no man should hold office for sixteen years without opposition, we are casting our vote for King Mederos for Supervisor.

Shakespeare Festival Is Under Way

Tryouts for parts in the Shakespeare Festival will be held in the Forest Theatre tomorrow at 3:00 p. m. and Sunday at 4:00 p. m. after the Male Chorus concert.

Herbert Heron says that there will be a part for everybody in at least one of the three plays scheduled; and a job for everybody who doesn't want a part but wants to participate. He needs a great army of scene shifters, stage managers, ticket takers, costume fitters, so that there is a place for everybody in this truly community activity, which is being revived this summer after a six year hiatus.

Scheduled for this season are Romeo and Juliet, July 2, 3 and 4; Oscar Wilde's Salome, July 16, 17 and 18; Midsummer Night's Dream in the latter part of August. The order of the plays may be reversed.

Since "Bert" Heron directed his first Shakespeare play in the Forest Theatre in 1911, there have been some outstanding and historic productions on the tree-shrouded stage. A glance at any of the old programs is like fluttering back the pages of the Carmel story. Little girl fairies and boy pages now grown up; Carmel citizens who were to become great names in other fields of endeavor, or who had even then become great names. Citizens with whom you exchange greetings daily on your way to the post office, under whose serious demeanor you would never suspect lurked a Forest Theatre past, complete with sword and jerkin. ## Gladys Kiplinger Appointed To Planning Board

Mrs. Gladys S. Kiplinger, a resident of Carmel since 1934, has been appointed to take the place of the late Clara Kellogg on the Carmel Planning Commission, Mayor Fred Godwin announced yesterday.

Mrs. Kiplinger's appointment comes with the recommendation of P. A. McCreery, chairman of the commission.

"She has interested herself in civic affairs, in a quiet way, since coming here fourteen years ago. She came from New York on a visit to some Carmel oldtimers who were her friends, and has stayed ever since. She remodels old houses so as to make them comfortable and convenient and still retain their attractiveness in the best Carmel tradition. Her taste and understanding of these things will be a great asset to the planning commission," McCreery said.

She was instrumental in bringing the neighbors into harmony and co-operation in the controversy over the improving of Tenth and Eleventh streets, and has assisted in many civic and neighborhood matters without allowing the part she played to be brought into prominence.

During the war she participated in the work of the A. W. V. S. and Gray Ladies.

All candidates, with the exception of Patton, have cross-filed.

In the race for State Assembly are Fred Weybret, incumbent, former publisher of the Salinas Index-Journal (Republican); Fred Emlay, Salinas businessman and former assemblyman from this district (Democrat); Everett Cunningham, East Monterey osteopath (Independent Progressive Party); James W. Silliman, incumbent, Salinas business man serving his first term, (Republican); and George Rice, Carmel resident and official of the Bartenders' and Culinary Workers' Alliance, (Democrat). Weybret, Cunningham, and Silliman have cross-filed on the Democratic ticket, and Rice has cross-filed on Republican.

Contestants for the post of County Supervisor are Andy Jacobsen, incumbent, Monterey Pen-

Sporting NOTES

SPORTS SCHEDULE
Softball

Tonight — Pine Cone vs. Fort Ord, Sunset Field, 8:30 p. m.

Wednesday, June 2—Pine Cone vs. Salinas Tire, Sunset Field, 8:30 p. m.

Saturday, May 29—State Track Meet at Berkeley, 10 a. m.

PINE CONE VS. FORT ORD TONIGHT

Another top flight softball game is on the docket tonight when the fast Fort Ord aggregation tangles with the Pine Cone nine. In an early season encounter, the Pine Cone handed the soldiers a 2-0 licking in an exciting well-played ball game. Fort Ord is entered in the Salinas City League and has defeated such good teams as Castroville, Salinas Tire, and Deer Park Tavern. The first meeting between the Pine Cone and Ord sluggers turned into a pitching duel between Jay Huffman and Ky Miyamoto for the locals against Morris for the soldiers. Miyamoto will serve them up for the Oilers tonight with Joe Nicholson behind the dish.

Next Wednesday night the Pine Cone will play host to the Salinas Tire nine from Salinas.

BOB BARRY IN STATE MEET TOMORROW

Bob Barry, Carmel high school's lone qualifier for the State track and field meet, will make the trek to Berkeley tomorrow to match strides with the best milers in the state. The State meet always brings out the best talent in all the C. I. F. sections and the boys who place must be outstanding performers. Arrayed against Bob tomorrow will be four milers who have run the four laps under 4:30. Two Pacific Grove boys will accompany Barry tomorrow. They are Max Kelly, a six foot high jumper, and Terril Moss, a 51 second 440 expert. Tomorrow's meet will be held at Edwards Field on the University of California campus, and will start at 1:30 p. m.

CARMEL ATHLETES PICNIC AT LA PLAYA RANCH

Through the courtesy of Mayor Fred Godwin, 80 Carmel High School athletes enjoyed an evening of fun and feasting at La Playa Ranch last Wednesday. Under the tutelage of Chef Howard Byrne the boys barbecued steaks which would satisfy the most particular gourmet. A swimming meet was held prior to the barbecue with the winning class having the privilege of being first in the chow line. The Senior class proved to be the best water dogs and they appeared to be the hungriest.

All boys who participated in second semester sports were on hand to enjoy the festivities. The Block C Society, under the guidance of Lew McCreery, made all the necessary arrangements for the picnic and transportation.

ADULT SOFTBALL LEAGUE PLANNED FOR SUMMER

The popular Recreation Softball League which provided so much fun last summer will again be a part of the Recreation Program this year and will get underway June 22. The same six teams which comprised the league last year have indicated that they will take part in the chase to relieve the Lions Club of the championship. The Lions walked off with the flag last year when they defeated the mighty Faculty in the deciding game. Besides the Lions and Faculty there will be the American Legion, Carmel Police, Carmel Volunteer Firemen, and Wilder & Jones. The W&J boys were the babies of the league last year but with a year's experience under their belts they will provide plenty of competition for the veteran aggregations.

Softball players planning to play this year can get in some early conditioning by attending the Monday and Wednesday practice sessions at Sunset Field. These sessions are going on now from 7 to 9 on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

HIGH SCHOOL AWARD

At the High School awards assembly last Wednesday afternoon 44 athletes were presented with stars and blocks for their participation in baseball, track, tennis, and golf. In order to qualify for the track award a boy must score 10 points during the season or make a point in the league meet. A baseball player must participate in half the innings played by the team. Golfers and tennis players must win a league match.

Varsity track award winners: Bob Barry, Dick Gargiulo, Curt Gorham, Bill Hodgson, Dick Taplin, Howard DeAmaral, Herman Menezes, Dick Weer, Paul Warner, and Ronald Stoney. # Father Bandini Works On Dante Revision At Il Marzocco Where The Crusades Meet Early Carmel

BY JOHN UPTON

If the medieval poet Dante Alighieri should come to Carmel for the weekend, you would probably find him staying with Father Albert Bandini, at Third and Santa Fe. The traffic on the truck route would surely terrify him (as it does us at times), and the accents of California would fall harshly on his sensitive 13th-century Italian ears; but at Il Marzocco, the little house hidden in the canyon, he would find the colorful austerity of his native Florence, and hear the soft syllables of medieval Italian from an eager compatriot.

If you sometimes takes the footpath that leads across the canyon between Third and Fourth on Santa Fe, you will have noticed a replica of a rural European shrine, atop a six-foot pedestal. Under the peaked roof stands a lion, resting an affectionate paw on a large shield. Beneath is a signboard with the scrolled legend, "Il Marzocco." Between white posts decorated with heraldic devices usually associated with the Crusades, the drive leads to a house that combines the architecture of early Carmel with that of Late Middle Ages. Partly enclosed by a thick, heavy wall, the low structure presents a fortified appearance that contrasts sharply with the new houses nearby.

This is the home of Father Albert Bandini, who came to Carmel upon his retirement from active duty in the church in 1946. A former professor of Latin and Greek, for the past 25 years he has concentrated on translations of the major Italian poets, and of Dante in particular. He has had published, besides his translations, a volume of essays (Life Is Too Short), a play (Catherine of Siena), his own poetry, and several magazine articles.

In his studio, where I found him seated at a typewriter and surrounded by books, papers, pamphlets, and a grand piano, he has the scholarly, rather worried look of the college professor in his cubicle. The walls are hung with photographs of medieval Italian churches and with hangings worked with the Florentine fleur-de-lis.

"Many people ask about the lion and shield out in front," he said. "It is the coat of arms of the ancient Republic of Florence, where Dante was born." Also a native of Florence, Father Bandini is a member of the Friends of Florence, an organization of Italophiles dedicated to sending relief to the destitute citizens of his native city.

Father Bandini is currently preparing a revised second edition of his translation of the Divina Commedia. "The Commedia, being written in terza rima, presents a considerable problem to the translator," he explained. "The first line rhymes with the third, the second with the fourth, and so on. This is further complicated by the fact that each line contains a complete thought or phrase, and that each group of three lines comprises a sentence or paragraph. Some translators have done excellent lineal translations, and others rhymed translations. My work is an attempt to reproduce the rhyme scheme in English while maintaining the inter-relationship of the lines and keeping the me-

A.A.U.W. To Give 3 Scholarships To Peninsula Girls

Three scholarships of $150 for girls graduating from the three high schools, Monterey, Pacific Grove, and Carmel, were voted by the American Association of University Women at the May breakfast meeting last Sunday morning at the home of Mrs. Thor Krogh in Monterey. Selection of the recipients was left to the faculty committees which choose such deserving students in the schools, on the basis of scholarship, personality, leadership, strength of character, and economic background.

Miss Gertrude Rendtorff, chairman of the scholarship committee, presented the committee's recommendation, which was promptly adopted. Other members of the committee are Miss L. Lucile Turner and Mrs. Blanchard Steeves. The retiring president, Mrs. Gordon Beall, handed the gavel over to her successor, Mrs. Norman Naas, for the business and reports of the year's activities. Miss Marie Schatz, treasurer, reported handling $1,001.01 during the year.

The nine members who attended the state convention in San Francisco on May 14 and 15 gave reports covering the various activities throughout the state, all of them along educational or governmental lines. The international fellowships and study grants offered by A. A. U. W. of the entire country have brought 96 women from foreign countries in the past three years to study in American universities, and this coming year will see 75, possibly even 125 receiving this assistance. Another important activity is the promotion of exchange of teachers with foreign countries in order to increase international understanding and good will.

Mrs. Naas announced her executive board for the coming year, which in addition to officers includes the following chairmen of activities: Mrs. J. O. Tostevin, social secretary; Mrs. Douglas Martz and Miss L. Lucile Turner, publicity; Mrs. Alden Melzian, arts and crafts; Mrs. Ted Durein, book section; Mrs. Clyde Barkell, international relations; Mrs. Charles Dawson, status of women; Mrs. Beall, hostess. Other officers are Mrs. Thor Krogh, vice-president; Mrs. Carl Albertus, secretary, and Miss Marie Schatz, treasurer.

Barbara Horder, English Actress, Believes American Drama, Movies, Need Stock Company Trained Talent

"There is a tremendous fund of theatrical talent in the United States that may never be recognized, because of the centralization of the theatre in Hollywood and Broadway. In England, where almost every town of any size has its own stock company employing professionals, the aspiring actor is in a much better position for the free development of his talents."

Barbara Horder (Mrs. Roger Rolleston West), actress, teacher, lecturer, and director, came to the Peninsula with her husband, Roger, a structural engineer, a short time ago to establish a home and to teach speech and drama in Carmel. "We have wanted to come to Carmel since we first saw it six years ago," she said at a local coffee shop a few days ago. "That it has its own first-rate little theatre groups, and that the general theatre taste here is so much above average is enough to cheer the heart of anyone interested in theatrical work."

Miss Horder was graduated from the Central School of Speech Training and Dramatic Art of London, and was a pupil of Elsie Fogerty, English authority on voice and diction. After working in stock company in Germany, she sang and acted in Basil Dean's productions of Hassan at His Majesty's Theatre and A Midsummer Night's Dream at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane. Later she toured with Sybil Thorndike in Shaw's St. Joan and played Anne Boleyn in Henry the Eighth. In 1926-27 she appeared with Lawrence Olivier in the Birmingham Repertory Theatre, and played in the Medea and St. Joan at the International Theatre Festival in Paris. She also did dramatic work for the BBC.

In 1931 Miss Horder came to Canada, where she directed for the Vancouver Little Theatre. Here she lectured on speech and drama and directed plays for the Canadian Dominion Drama Festivals. She came to the United States to appear with Lawrence Olivier and Vivien Leigh in the Broadway production of Romeo and Juliet. After two years in Hollywood, she directed St. Joan in San Francisco and appeared as Olivia in Twelfth Night at the Greek Theatre for the 1941 Festival. At the Theatre Arts Colony in San Francisco, which she joined in 1942, she directed, among others, Family Portrait, Hay Fever, The Importance of Being Earnest, and Shadow and Substance. In March of this year she directed Ben Jonson's Volpone at the Bay Theatre.

"Although I have run the gamut from Greek tragedy to Shaw," she said, "I am particularly fond of new and experimental theatre work. In 1925 I was with John Gielgud in one of the first London experimental little theatres, known as London's Littlest Theatre, in which we specialized in new one-act plays. This company was among the first to present Susan Glaspell, John Van Druten, Sir John Squire, and G. K. Chesterton, a friend of the family, who was one of the sponsors and wrote a play for our small stage.

"The fact that the actors were paid by the theatre made this work both rewarding and pleasant. The aspiring actor should not have to divide his interests: I know how difficult it is, after working all day at some job or other, to attend evening rehearsals, and I'm sure that many latent talents are discouraged by mere lack of stamina, where the theatre cannot pay them a regular salary. I would like to see more companies set up in this country that could support themselves and pay their members as professionals, leaving them the time and energy for the really hard work that acting is.

"Americans often comment on the excellence of British motion pictures," Miss Horder said. "There are, I think, two reasons for this. First, the screen actors have an enviable background of many years in stock companies, not large, successful companies necessarily, but often small, hard-working groups that operate in hundreds of small communities. This may not lead to fame, but it does lead to good theatre and sound acting. Second, the British motion picture industry hasn't the staggering financial resources of Hollywood. If you can't afford to employ thousands of extras for crowd scenes or build lavish sets, you're forced to rely on good acting, intelligent direction, and the best story you can find. Sensationalism and advertising, to a great extent, must be eliminated from the budget.

"People as a whole have an innate sense of good taste and of good theatre. I was particularly impressed with this when I found that in the outlying provinces of Canada, some of which are pretty primitive, Shakespeare and Shaw were appreciated and enjoyed, even when the sense of the play often did not reach the audience."

Barbara Horder plans to give a three months' course in speech and drama at the Green Room of the Golden Bough Playhouse, beginning about the middle of June. She and her husband, who is in the building business here, are living in New Monterey until they can move into a home in Carmel.

Eva Richardson

Mrs. Eva Richardson, 73, whose body was found on the Pacific Grove beach near Asilomar last Friday, "probably died of natural causes," the coroner's office said Wednesday following an inquest held in Pacific Grove. Mrs. Richardson, in ill health for several years, disappeared May 14, and that date was listed as the probable time of her death by the inquest. A resident of the 17 Mile Drive Auto Court for several years, she had been under a doctor's care for high blood pressure.

A native of Laconner, Washington, Mrs. Richardson leaves a son, Daniel G. Richardson of Vienna, and a brother, George H. Gaches, of Mt. Vernon, Washington. Services were held Tuesday morning at the Little Chapel by the Sea Crematorium in Pacific Grove, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Free Lectures, Art Lessons On Goethe's Theory

Goethe's theory of color furnished the basis for a series of lectures and painting lessons which Richard Kroth will give at Sunset School under the sponsorship of the Rudolf Steiner Study Group of Carmel. There will be no charge.

The first lecture, on June 2, 8:00 p. m., in the lunch room, is entitled Color Perspective; the second, scheduled for June 4, The Physiological Colors, will be illustrated by slides. The painting lessons will be given on June 3 and 5. Paper, brushes and colors will be provided but each person should bring a drawing board or heavy cardboard, 20x26.

While he is here, an exhibition of Richard Kroth's paintings will be held at the H. L. Frisbie Furniture Store on Dolores street from June 2 to 6. The public is invited to see the exhibit between 9:30 a. m. and 5:45 p. m. As this artist's approach to painting is unique and unfamiliar, there is considerable local interest in the showing.

When Jeanne D'Orge, Carmel artist, was told of the forthcoming visit to Carmel of Richard Kroth, exponent of Goethe's theory of color, she consented to review one of the best books on the subject. It appears on the feature page of this issue.

PARTY AND STORY SALE

Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Greene will entertain the Writers Club of the Carmel Adult School at their home, Tideswept, on the Point, at 7:30 next Monday evening, May 31, when Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte will conduct the discussion of fiction technique as usual, although the school will be closed for Memorial Day. Writers in all degrees of success are welcome to join this group.

The forfeit of a box of candy in celebration of a story sale was last Monday evening paid by Mrs. Katherine Peavy, whose story of a haughty boy who reformed when he was given the proper attention was bought by The Christian Home. Mrs. Peavy has sold many juvenile stories and short articles which stress the human element. She and her husband are both teachers and their two sons are musicians.

DECORATION DAY SERVICES

For God created man to be immortal and made him to be an image of His own eternity; this verse from the Wisdom of Solomon is the text chosen by the Rev. Theodore Bell for his Decoration Day sermon in St. John's Chapel, at Del Monte. The 11:00 o'clock service will be Morning Prayer, a song service, and at 8:00 o'clock the Holy Communion will be celebrated. Parents are invited to accompany their children to the Children's Service at 9:30 o'clock. The Rector conducts the service.

Carmelites View Poignant Reminders Of Gen. Stilwell

Symbol of more than just a general and just a campaign were the boots and hat displayed in the window of the Village Book Shop on Monday afternoon, for the boots and hat belonged to General Joseph W. Stilwell, and the campaign in which they were used was the tragic and historic Burma campaign; the dusty brown army boots marched out of Burma, and the regulation hat was worn all during the campaign.

Hundreds of Carmel people clustered around the window to view these worn but shining symbols; they remembered with pride that Carmel was the home of General Stilwell, and they remembered with sadness that he is no longer with us.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Sylvia Jordan's Seventh Grade

For the first time the Sunset Glow, school paper of Sunset Elementary School, will be issued in the form of a year book centering attention on the seventh grade. Mrs. Sylvia Jordan, one of our seventh grade teachers, is responsible for the idea. Giving her valuable help is Art Holman who has taken the pictures.—Janet Grafft.

No one knows who is to be the cover girl for the year book, but everyone is doing a lot of hoping.
—Carlene Daniels.

The seventh grade girls are excited over the dresses they will wear for the promotion exercises. A simple style was selected, tight bodice with a bertha, and a circular skirt. Most of the girls have chosen white pique.

The boys will wear white shirts and white duck trousers. I won't say anything about neckties.
—Carolyn Fratessa.

Many of the girls are taking part in a sewing project. Instead of going to shop, they are busy making skirts of checked gingham and unbleached muslin and trimming them with designs of cross-stitch, stencilling and applique.
—Sue Johnston.

Marsha Laird had a slumber party on her thirteenth birthday, May 15. A taffy pull in the evening and stacks of hotcakes in the morning made everyone happy. Those present were Marsha Laird, hostess, Carlene Daniels, Carole Byers, Sue Johnston, Carolyn Fratessa, Judy Harget, Pat Chedes-Sylvia Heinselman, Barbara Reyburn, Barbara Keller, Janet Grafft, and Ruth Pullman.
—Barbara Keller.

Mr. Holman is taking over the boys' sports during track. Every Tuesday and Thursday the boys go out on the field and run the 50-yard dash. The timing ranges from 7.0 to 7.5. On Saturdays we go up to the high school and high jump, broad jump, run the 100-yard dash, pole vault and jump hurdles.—Brad Dixon.

Miss Constance McLaughlin's First Grade

We saw a great big man in Fresno. He was just about eight feet tall and had almost to get down on his knees to get on an elevator—he had to stoop everywhere.—David Farr.

When we go to sleep at night, we chain our dog so we can turn him into a watch dog.
—Ricky Amiel.

For our vacation we are going swimming.—Susie Mosolf.

My friend Michael doesn't look so well—he had his "rependix" out.—Nicky Vertin.

I hid from my sister under the bubbles in the bath tub and my sister couldn't find me.
—John Geisen.

My mother went to an antique store in the Rocky Mountains and brought back lots of colored stones.—Robin Way.

Mrs. Marjorie McCausland's First Grade

I think the American flag is the "importantist" flag in the whole world because it has lots of states under it.—Peter Hensel.

You are supposed to love the American flag and if you don't love it you are not a good citizen.
—Sue Mitchell.

We salute the American flag because we think with our heart.
—Larry Daniels.

I think we should love the American flag because it belongs to all of us.—Connie Chedester.

When we went to see the California Bear flag I didn't know what that flag was—now I know.
—Marjorie Grovesner.

One day I saw a little boy throwing rocks at the flag and I told him to stop so I made him a good citizen. I was a good citizen, too, wasn't I?—Dale Dawson.

I used to think the California Bear flag was just a picture.
—Larry Daniels.

Mr. Blee's seventh grade has planted a wild flower garden. Two girls planted it in the patio. They planted it in the last part of February. Now the flowers are starting to come up.—Dawn Suurballe.

Mr. Blee's science class has just finished making scrap books of all different kinds of wild flowers. There are many more than you would think. Some students got as many as 65 kinds. It was fun collecting and pressing them and we learned a great deal at the same time. We had a field trip conducted by Mr. Blee. On the trip we found many different species. We also looked for birds and listened to their calls.

We have been experimenting with seeds lately. We have sprouted two different kinds of beans and have observed an avocado which hadn't been given sunlight and was an albino. We also have pollywogs which we are watching. We have an aquarium with a little turtle, one mosquito fish, and some snails. They have gotten along fine so far. We are bringing in insects either for killing and mounting or for live specimen. At the first of the year most of the students weren't too keen about science, but I'm sure they'll agree with me that science is a very interesting subject.—Janet Grafft.

Night of Jan. 16 Big Success For Two Nights Here

By R. Ellis Roberts

Ayn Rand's The Night of January 16th was admirably acted by the Carmel Adult School Players and brilliantly produced by Lee Crowe. It was great fun on the night of May 21 in the Sunset Auditorium. It's not so much a whodunit as a whodunwhom. In its light way it is also a satiric caricature of court procedure, ribbing the incompetence of the defense attorney, the elderly partiality of the judge and the lively disorderliness of the proceedings. There were also signs of more serious ability in Miss Rand's suggestion that the value of evidence must vary according to the character of the witness who testifies to what has been seen or heard. I must not disclose the plot as the play's reception was so enthusiastic that it is likely to be revived: but it is no secret that the play centers on the death of Bjorn Faulkner, a financial magnate based on Krueger, the match king. Faulkner's secretary is on trial for his murder, and as the lady, beautifully acted by Catherine Drachnik, has been seen pushing a body off her penthouse roof, things do not look too good for her. The play's action is her trial, and the verdict is given by a jury selected from the audience. We hear the evidence, we—and this is more important—see the witnesses, hear the district and defense attorneys and have to listen to the judge's summing-up. I was as surprised as delighted to discover that Albert Van Houtte was Judge Heath; for I had not thought of Mr. Van Houtte as going to school. Indeed many of the actors are old friends to those who have seen recent plays at the Golden Bough Playhouse.

Clayton Somers, as district attorney, was lethally unfair and he was never for a second out of the long part; each sentence, each pause, of each witness had its effect on him, an effect aimed at influencing the jury and, incidentally, delighting the audience. Laurence Rose was almost too gentle in his handling of a very strong case for the defense. As the prisoner, Catherine Drachnik was admirable; she sustained her long periods of silence as well as her dramatic speeches with equal skill. All the witnesses were good; especially notable were Ruth Hill Cook, who expressed perfectly the shrewd simplicity and honesty of the janitor's wife; Ruth Marion McElroy who gave, almost frighteningly, the narrow Puritan fury of Magda Svenson, and Frederick Stevens who moved the audience by his agonizing portrayal of a sensitive man for whose nerves life has been too hard.

In complete contrast was the humorous Irish calm of Jack Walsh's policeman, who reduced the audience to delighted laughter. Excellent, too, was Ken Smith as a private eye with a yen for public bars. The chief witnesses—we wondered how deeply they were involved in the crime—were the dead man's widow, his father-in-law, John Graham Whitfield, a banker, and Larry Regan, a gangster who admits to a hopeless love for Karen Andre, the defendant.

Mona Williams gave a finely restrained performance as Mrs. Faulkner, suggesting skilfully the mixture of spoiled child and stupid girl whose mere existence is an incentive to crime. As her father Eugene Watson gave a superb performance, portraying effortlessly that arrogant authority so often found in men whose position has never been challenged. Nicky Lefeuvre's Larry Regan made the best of a rather incredible character; I liked particularly his handling of the district attorney.

As Roberta Van Rensselaer, otherwise Ruby O'Toole, Hildreth Hare was purely delightful. Minor parts were well sustained by Cloe Wilson, Douglas Douthit, Olga Taylor, Connie Bestor, Roland Newcomb, Betty Starke, Helen Prosser and Thomas Morley (a very good medical witness.) As for Nora Law's prison matron, she cast so shrewd a glance at each witness that we longed to hear her opinion.

The jury seemed to enjoy the trial greatly and gave, against the judge's summing-up (really a speech for the prosecution), the only possible verdict on the evidence.

The thanks of all play-lovers in Carmel are due to the Lions' Club for making this presentation possible.

On Saturday night there were four changes in the cast. As defense attorney, Gene Etlett as Vera, was highly effective. Arthur Shoemaker managed to convince us that he was a thorough unscrupulous gangster. Miss Beatrice Mason was efficiently good as the handwriting expert; and Miss Gwen Callums as Nancy Lee Faulkner gave a straightforward interpretation. The audience on Saturday was equally large and enthusiastic and the jury selected from it gave the same verdict as on Friday and produced the same irritable reaction from the judge who must have had a large unsecured overdraft at Mr. Whitfield's back.

152 Votes Cast For Mrs. Moller

Mrs. Martha Moller, trustee and clerk of the board of the Carmel Unified School District since 1942, was elected to succeed herself this week, District Superintendent Stuart Mitchell announced. One write-in vote was cast for Dr. R. A. Kocher, he said, making the score 152 to 1. Dr. Kocher, although previously spoken of as a candidate, did not run for the post. The votes will be officially canvassed at a special meeting of the board today at 2:00 p. m., to be held at the home of Harold Nielsen.

Mrs. Moller was appointed to the board in June, 1942, replacing Capt. Shelburn Robison, Carmel attorney. She has since served a full term and a half, covering six years.

P. D.

Two Carmel women were convinced Monday night that the town has been taken over by Philistines. A citizen at Scenic and Tenth called Carmel police at 9:45 to report "loud screams and shrieks" emanating from the beach below his home. "Sounds like someone calling for help," he said. He was told to stand by in front of his house until a police car arrived. Officers, following the voices, located two conscientious women who have parts in the coming Bach Festival, getting in a little practice in "throwing out over the water." "They were a bit miffed," police said, "when we told them why we were there, and that they had awakened a baby in the neighborhood." The singers departed in a huff, presumably to a locale more appreciative of art.

The corner of Mission and Ocean seems to be the center of a small crime wave lately. Police canceled a ticket issued to Steve Theodore Walsh of San Jose for parking in a red zone late Saturday night near the Carmel Theatre when Walsh appeared and showed them a deflated and slashed tire on his car. He said it was the work of some kids standing on the corner, but was unable to point them out. "We figured the man had had enough trouble for one night," police said.

Lt. Commander B. E. Gunn, who gave as his address a guest house at Seventh and Monte Verde, reported to Carmel police Monday night that the radio antenna on his automobile, parked near Mission and Ocean, had assumed the shape of a pretzel while he was at the show. Police felt certain that no supernatural cause was involved.

Chief Roy Fraties is back at the station this week, looking fine after a couple of weeks in the hospital. He says he's breaking in again gradually, at the rate of two or three hours a day. He was discharged from the hospital May 15, after an operation.

Hanson Recovering From Suicide Attempt

Richard Hanson, playwright from Colorado who was rescued from a blazing bed after an attempted suicide at the home of Dr. E. T. Pattee of Pebble Beach Saturday morning, is out of danger and resting easily, county hospital authorities said late this week. Hanson, who was renting a room at the Pattee home, apparently losing consciousness after slashing his wrists and throat, set off the fire by dropping a burning cigarette on the bed, deputy sheriffs said.

The fire was discovered about 8:30 a. m. by Walter W. Bratney, another tenant. Crews from the Carmel Hill Fire Station arrived shortly, and fought the blaze for four hours, assisted by six volunteers from the Carmel Fire Department, which does not include Pebble Beach in its territory. Hanson was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital for emergency treatment by the Red Cross ambulance, operated by the Carmel Fire Department. Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

Lottie F. Martin

Mrs. Lottie Fryer Martin, for 30 years a resident of Carmel Valley, and a member of the pioneering Martin family here, died May 20 at a local hospital, after a brief illness. A native of Spadra, California, she was the widow of the late James A. Martin, Carmel Valley and Castroville farmer. She leaves her niece, Mrs. Jean Stewart McKenzie of Salinas;a nephew, J. H. Stewart of Carmel Valley; two brothers, Walter Fryer of Chino, and Harry Fryer of Spadra; and a sister, Mrs. R. S. Harris of Spadra.

Private services were held Monday at the Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove, with the Reverend T. T. Barkle officiating. Pall bearers were Tom Riley, George McDonald, Howard Hatton, Roy Meadows, Jean Sindel, and Will Hatton. Interment was in the family plot at the Monterey cemetery.

CANCER DRIVE

The American Cancer Society's Monterey Peninsula drive, which ends Monday, May 31, is still $1,400 short of the goal set for this district, William Giles, Carmel chairman, said Wednesday. The campaign, handled by the Monterey Peninsula 20-30 Club, has collected $2,600 in donations toward a goal set at $4,000. Contributions may be mailed to The American Cancer Society, P. O. Box 102, Pacific Grove.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

The Carmel Woman's Club Fiesta lingers on in my mind. At the time there was too much to be taken in, but in retrospect it is possible to enjoy single features that pop out in memory. The after effect tells the story and my memory centers on two distinct features. Dominating everything is the bridal altar by Mrs. Virginia Nielson. "Art by elimination" is the only way I can express the effect that altar had on me. The singleness of purpose, the dignity and elegance of the arrangement struck me so forcibly that I can still see the tall candelabra drawn together by the single mass of white stock. The Chinese have a definition of art that would fit Mrs. Nielson's work: "A single rose against a background of nothing." To the feminine heart that altar held romantic significance; nostalgia for some, hope for others.

The second display that I carry in my memory is the arrangements of wild flowers that stood to the right of the entrance. Mrs. J. P. Tripp of Salinas is responsible for that gem of beauty. Who but an artist would ever think of going to the fields for material that must compete with exotics? I stood before that bowl of wild flowers holding my breath lest it be wafted away. It was a fairyland creation and I know perfectly well that the Fairy Princess was hiding in that bowl of wild flowers.

I didn't discover that I had a project to be assembled until the evening preceding the opening. There was I, representing the Pine Inn, without an idea in my head, and if I had had an idea, what could I do about it? I rose at dawn the morning of the opening, rushed down to the Pine Inn and laid my problem in front of our Japanese gardener, Fred Matsuyama. From that moment on, I had no problem. I never saw anyone work out a garden with such skill and calm. All I did was to stand around and watch. An ivy arch rose before my astonished eyes—a petunia and forget-me-not garden grew in a twinkling. Fred assembled the most honest looking bushes from twigs, and those bushes looked as though they had been growing in that spot for years. All the exhibitors were rushing around like mad with last minute problems. Only I was calm. I could afford to be calm with such a helper as Fred Matsuyama.

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

It's time to take your tubers out of flats and get them going. Begonias are simple to grow if a few simple rules are followed. The soil is the thing. I have Douglas Bishop's recipe for begonia soil, and who better than he knows about tuberous begonias? Douglas mixes his soil by the wheelbarrow full, but here is the gist of his formula. Three parts leaf mold, one part good garden soil, one part fertilizer (very old, well cured cow manure.) End the thing up with a generous sprinkling of bone meal, and there you are.

BEACHES QUARANTINED

Many of the small beaches in Pacific Grove and the area between Cannery Row and the Old Wharf in Monterey have been placed under permanent quarantine along with the mouth of the Carmel River, Doctor Kenneth C. Sheriff, county health officer, stated this week. The water shows a high degree of contamination and new, large quarantine signs have been posted warning the public of the hazard and advising them not to swim in that area.

This quarantine action does not effect the Municipal beach at Pacific Grove or the Main beach at Monterey.

LUBRICARE—
tailor-made lubrication for Buicks

It's lubrication made to measure for your Buick by the engineers who built the car—with lubricants carefully chosen for just one reason: they are best for your Buick.

Men who know Buicks thoroughly see that all the different points that need it are properly supplied with exactly the right kind and right amount of lubricant.

You're away knowing your car is protected and set to roll smoothly and dependably with lubrication that has been matched to the mileage you have driven.

SEE YOUR BUICK DEALER REGULARLY FOR LUBRICARE

No wonder you grin! There's that zoom again – that go – that flashing spirit that you know is built in Buicks. There's that split-second answer to your call for power, the feather-light response to your finger that makes your two-ton honey handle like a baby buggy.

This is what happens when a Buick is cared for by men who know Buicks best – men who know the height of spirit a Buick can reach and how to bring it out.

Buick men have a way with Buicks no one else can have. That's only natural. Whatever they do, they do as the designers and builders of Buick say it should be done. They use Buick-approved checks and tools. And when time and miles finally take their toll in wear, they have right at hand a stock of Buick-engineered replacement parts.

Wheel in and they'll sweeten your engine to bring out all its surge and go. They'll steady your car's easy gait and make steering limber. They'll even take out your worn engine and give you new-car zing and power with a factory-fresh Fireball.

See for yourself. Bring your car in and get real, understanding Buick car care. You can't buy it anywhere else – and job for job it doesn't cost you a penny more.

Both Candidates Say They're Good At Demo Meeting

Carmel Women's Democratic club, meeting at the home of Mrs. Lee O. Kellogg on Friday afternoon, heard the two candidates for county supervisor present their ideas for good government and make a bid for the votes of the club members. Mrs. Paul Low, as chairman of the meeting, introduced the candidates, Andrew Jacobsen, present supervisor, and King Mederos.

Completing four terms in office with no opposing candidate, Mr. Jacobsen pointed to his record of service to the county with fourteen years as chairman of the board. During that time the county has acquired a fine courthouse, a modern hospital, and, for the convenience of the Peninsula, a county building in Monterey, saving the taxpayers rental costs. Expansion of facilities is planned for the near future as needed. Assessed values in the county are up 25 per cent, as in the state as a whole; while cost of the county government has increased 38 per cent over 1939, in many other counties it has increased 100 per cent. The supervisors actually control only 30 per cent of the tax money, the rest being allotted by law to various parts of the county government. County moneys are apportioned fairly among the districts; the Peninsula area received $107,000 for its highways, more than any other district, in the 1946-7 road fund.

The hospital is part of a long-range program for conserving the health of the citizens, Jacobsen said. Centralized buildings and equipment are most efficient and economical, but the supervisors have set an emergency program for the Monterey Peninsula, with 24 hour ambulance service and immediate care in local hospitals. The taxpayers of the county have had an investment in him for 16 years, declared Mr. Jacobsen, and it will benefit them to continue that investment.

Mr. Mederos, head of the County Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said every office in the state should naturally have some opposition to hold it to highest efficiency, and so he is contending for the supervisor's post. Half-jokingly he pointed to Mr. Jacobsen's criticism of Mr. Roosevelt's running for a third term in 1940—"and now Andy wants a fifth term for himself." But Mr. Mederos has also solid qualities for the office; a wide and successful business experience and present farming activities, with the humane society and animal care as a continuous hobby. Moreover he feels that Carmel, the valley and the coastal area have not had a fair deal in their roads; recent improvements came only after determined needling of the supervisors.

Further, he opposes budgeting $18,000 county money for advertising through Chambers of Commerce, Mission Trails, and shows that make a profit, such as rodeos. He believes the advertising fund should be abolished until the county can furnish adequate housing. Emergency medical relief service on the Monterey Peninsula is not satisfactory. There should be a county committee of business and medical men to work out a plan that would give immediate service as needed. Taxes are now at the saturation point and should be held down while the board should strive for maximum efficiency in administration. Mr. Mederos believes he can do a good job and represent all the people for the best interest of all.

A question period brought out discussion of the Seaside drainage and sanitary conditions, more on the medical emergency service, roads—"Why do they shovel a little dirt into a hole in the road, and the next day it's gone?" Mr. Jacobsen admitted they'd had one bad batch of mix for the roads—and "it takes much money for city streets."—L. L. T.

Gift From Spain To Be Unveiled At Mission Sunday

The new bas-relief recently installed on the south side of the Carmel Mission will be unveiled in a formal ceremony Sunday, May 30. A gift from the Hispanic Institute of Art, of Madrid, the 8-foot stone sculpture arrived from Barcelona six weeks ago upon its completion by Spanish sculptor, Jose Canas, who was present to supervise its installation. Its subject is "Spanish Missions in America."

Following Solemn High Mass at 9:30, with His Excellency the Bishop Willinger, D. D., presiding, the unveiling ceremony will begin with a formal presentation by Francisco Amat, Spanish consul from San Francisco, and an acceptance by Bishop Willinger. There will also be an address by Professor Aurelio Espinosa of Stanford University.

An exhibition of Senor Canas' work opened Tuesday with a reception at the Carmel Art Association gallery. This show includes photographic studies of his sculpture done in Spain, pastel drawings of California landscapes, and animal studies. His show will continue until June 1.

CARMEL UNINCORPORATED

Shelburn Robison addressed the members of Carmel Unincorporated at a meeting Wednesday afternoon on sanitary problems of the outlying districts. He pointed out that a pumping system had been paid for by the Sanitary District, but owing to the unwillingness of the property owners to pay assessment for the laying of sewers, it had never been put in use, so that, though the Point is a part of the Sanitary District, it does not have its facilities.

Other business of the meeting was the adoption of a constitution.

Hi Chatter...

By Peggy Riker

The last awards assembly of the year was held Wednesday when the awards for spring sports, California Scholarship Federation membership, and Service pins were presented. Pat Timbers was the only one to meet the requirements for a service pin, while 31 girls received shields, numerals, blocks, or stars for baseball, tennis and badminton. Coach Mosolf also presented the boys' athletic awards before an enthusiastic and appreciative audience.

Monday the Spanish Club, which represents first, second and third year Spanish classes, presented a hilarious comedy which afforded the student body much amusement. Complete with "south of the border" melodrama, the dialogue, with its spattering of Spanish, kept the audience highly entertained.

It's Leap Year, Girls!

First girl in our town to "get her man" on Leap Year was the Cuppers' daughter, Jane, who wed Bill Webster's boy last Saturday.

When I asked Bill Jr. if it was true that Janey really did the proposing, Bill said: No, but she made it plain she'd make an ideal wife. Instead of looking for diversion or excitement every evening, she was content to chat beside the fire.

"I could plainly see," says Bill, "that we'd really have a happy home life—which is just exactly what I want from marriage."

I know it's usual for older folks to shake their heads over the younger generation. (It's gone on for hundreds of years, now.)

But from where I sit, young people of marrying age today are every bit as commendable as their elders were—in their temperance (a glass of beer for instance), tolerance, and common sense. So to Jane and Bill—the best of luck!

Giant water tunnels 12 miles through granite will soon step up P. G. and E. power

Deep in Sierra granite near Jackson, expert miners are blasting out two of the world's largest water tunnels ... tunnels which will soon help generate 154,000 new electrical horsepower for Northern and Central California. Already, in just a year's time, one of the tunnels—43,064 feet long—has been completed, and all but 3,000 feet of the second is finished. Completion date is early July.

200 feet a day has been average progress, and rivalry is high as crews at both ends of the remaining tunnel battle rock and time to beat each other. Special bonuses are paid for every foot over thirty; work goes on 'round the clock six days a week. The tunnels are 15½ feet high and 13 feet wide.

On the Mokelumne River below, the big new Electra powerhouse (one of two soon to be served by the tunnels) nears completion. Here, three big generators will soon be whirling out 133,000 electrical-horsepower ... new power to help meet our greatest demand in history ... new power to serve you better.

For the record
These tunnels are just a small part of the P.G.&E. construction program
Actually nearly 2,000,000 electrical horsepower will be added... twice as much as was needed to serve all of pre-war Northern California
This is the biggest program of any electrical utility in America today...and we're going full speed ahead.

Have You Read . . . ?

BY JEANNE D'ORGE

Pure Color by Eleanor Merry and Maria Schindler, New Culture Publication, 51 Wellington Road, London, N. W. 8.

The book, Pure Color, by Eleanor Merry and Maria Schindler, brings good tidings of activity, of something going on in England that is fresh and alive, moving in a different direction, moving toward a new culture.

The book is a textbook, but it is more than a textbook. Its authors and this reviewer agree that it is a sign and portent of a new way of looking at life, a new way of looking at the world which creates another approach to painting. Even more provocative, it is not a limited world. This new way of looking and painting involves everyone—not only the "artist," but also the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker.

Here is a record of exercises that are designed to lead the student of color, step by step into the world of color, there to find form, if he is an artist, there to awaken to his own sense of creativeness, so that he can use new knowledge in an enrichment of his life. Out of such a doctrine, one can envisage a world in which, finally, there is no need for the clatter and chatter of critics on art—a world in which there is, God help us, no need to teach "appreciation" of art.

To examine the book itself. Divided into three parts, the first part consists of a series of exercises based on the application of Goethe's theory of color, and is written by Maria Schindler. The exercises require the use of color prisms in the creation of pure color. This section is highly technical, and a full understanding of its meaning depends, not on reading, but actually on the doing of each of the exercises. Part three consists of extracts from Goethe's scientific works, newly translated by Eleanor Merry. These include Contributions to Optics, Researches into the Elements of a Theory of Color, Moral Effects of Color. The authors believe, "It is a strange fact that when the trinity of light and darkness and pure color is understood, they seem in some way to give shape and form to the usually formless and inarticulate sense of the beautiful, which is inherent in everyone. To work on these lines goes far beyond the mere revival of opinions concerning Goethe's theory of color. It extends the knowledge of the art of painting and of all practical uses of color in everyday surroundings."

The second section of the book will be found to be more readable and more intelligible to the educated "layman," being as it is a discussion of generalized problems such as Twentieth Century Art, Some Universal Aspects of Color, Imaginative Ideas, and Color and Children. This last ought to arouse educators.

The present writer, who has long worked in pure color in her own art, would like to add an endorsement for this book—an endorsement that comes, as it were, through the back door. Because, without ever having heard of Goethe's theory of color, or even having had knowledge of this particular phase of it, I found myself instinctively following the process, working through exercise after exercise, until, after ten years of hard work, I found to my delight and surprise, that I had achieved form. What is significant then, it seems to me, is that the beautiful living world of color exists. It exists without benefit of Goethe, without benefit of Steiner or of any other experimenter, or cult—scientific or artistic. The value of this particular book for me, is that it suggests a foreshortening in the process of discovery to those of its readers who take it to heart and not only read—but do.

DO TREES REMEMBER TOO?

What madness in the veins attends
The bright confusion of the bough
That through the changing autumn spends
Its gold upon a fickle sky . . .

Do trees remember too the day
They held their proud heads high,
Resigned at last to the quiet brown
Of ashes waiting to come down?

—THIRZA MARTIN

HE WHO HAS LIVED BY A PEPPER TREE

I lived one time by a pepper tree.
Both the cool, salt breath of the tumbling sea
And the blasts of the desert came to me
Through the lace of the fanning pepper tree.

A bluejay came to my pepper tree—
Like a chunk of scolding sky;
He was hard to satisfy.
Though he flew away,
He returned one day,
For even a jay could see
The lure of a pepper tree.

The leaves of a pepper tree
Are like long drops of rain
Of silken green, and, gracefully,
They drape like a counterpane—
Till enfolded in fog, the pepper tree
Becomes a phantom of filigree.

He who has lived by a pepper tree
Hung with berries of red
Will always be song-fed,
For wild is the feathered melody
That swings from the limbs of a pepper tree.

—ALICE JOSEPHINE WYATT

SUNSET

Perceptibly the sun bequeaths
Its fire to the quenching seas,
Poised equally between our night
And morning in antipodes.

In that red moment, half unset,
It silhouettes the Farallones
And etches on the retina

That is the moment to be still
And while the image burns the eye
To breathe unspeakable pure praise
For beauties which past homage lie.

—J. S. MOODEY

THE LIVELY CITADEL

Now we gather small geraniums of light
And long ferns of shadow—
This one star we find in a lake
Like a lively citadel in space,
A cold, carved blossom
Blown over the water . . .
The sun leaves strange flowers
Burning in the sky.

Carmel Story . . .

BY DAISY BOSTICK

THE CITY COUNCIL

"Freddie" Godwin is the present mayor, with two years yet to serve and eight years already to his credit. Though he is the owner of one of our larger hotels he finds time to do full justice to the city's problems. He has been here since boyhood and was brought up in the Carmel "state of mind"—the perpetuation of its beauty.

The mayor takes a keen interest in boys' organizations. During the early years of the war he felt that with so many local men absent and with strangers settling here for the duration, something should be done to give the children wholesome outdoor sports, so he organized and implemented Carmel's first recreation program. His pet project now is the local Boys' Club and he frequently entertains at his Valley ranch groups of boys from our schools. He will shortly give a day to a joint swimming match between the Monterey and Carmel High Schools. Recently he took fourteen youngsters to San Francisco to see a double header baseball game at the Seals' Stadium.

Councilman Donald Craig brings youth and enthusiasm to his duties as fire commissioner. He combines his civic responsibilities with that of teacher of languages and history in the high school. He was largely instrumental in getting the water company to install larger mains so that greater pressure could be had in the event of a major fire.

Allen Knight, police commissioner, has grown up with the village and has always taken a prominent part in its civic and cultural life.

Gene Ricketts, a Carmel business man, was recently elected to the council and is serving as commissioner of streets.

Andy Martin, one of the new members, takes over the health and safety. He was formerly a state highway patrolman for this district.

Any discussion of the Carmel council should include Keith Evans. It he hadn't decided to build his home just outside the city limits he would still be prominent in our governing body. For many years he gave his time and effort in the city's behalf, with time out for war service, and filling in since then an unexpired term of one of its members. When he was first elected to the council in 1940 he received the highest popular vote yet recorded in a Carmel election. We have never had a city official who is more liked and respected than Keith Evans, both by the people and by his fellow councilmen.

In the not too distant future when a new home is built for the Church, and when the City Fathers have taken over their entire premises, the resonant old bell which for many years has called the people to their devotions may peal out from the church belfry summoning the citizens to their town meeting. If Hal Bragg were still living here I would nominate him for TOWN CRIER. He could ring the bell and between peals could call lustily: TOWN MEETIN' TONIGHT! TOWN MEETIN' TONIGHT! And I assure you that his voice could be heard as far as the sound of the bell can reach. It would be nice to hear Hal's stentorian call in the still night. And it would give San Francisco papers (attention Herb Caen) another swell story about Carmel.

In imagination I stand in front of the city hall listening to the bell and the Town Crier and seeing shadowy figures coming out of the gloom, their old Carmel lanterns flickering through the darkness like glowworms, as the "forgotten ones" of almost a half century ago gather for their town meetin'.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

D'ye know? This succession planting is a funny business. The books and articles all tell us that if we would avoid having a vegetable feast or a famine we should practice succession planting. Even the directions on the seed packets suggest planting in succession and agree with the writers of books and articles that the proper interval between plantings is a precise and universal period of two weeks.

Well, I am a great believer in "book-larnin'" and so thought the experts and the seed growers know what they are talking about. But I am here to tell you that things just don't grow that way in my garden. In my experience that interval of two weeks is entirely too short; or maybe my rows are too long. Anyhow, I now make my successive plantings three and four weeks apart. Take my experience with green peas for an example. Two years ago I followed the suggestion of two weeks between plantings. Would you believe that three weeks after the second sowing nobody could tell which rows were the first and which were the second sowing? They both matured at exactly the same time and we had peas three times a day for a week. That was all right because we like green peas—Bess says they are her favorite fruit. However, we didn't avoid the feast or famine situation. Last year I lengthened the interval to three weeks and managed to get a four-day surcease from green peas. This year I shall use a month interval.

The same thing has happened with snap (string, green) beans. The year of the two-week interval between plantings the neighbors hurried by the garden with their gaze fixed seaward. They were afraid I would ask them if they would like some snap beans. String beans are good eating, of course, but, golly, I'd like a chance to get at some of the other vegetables, too. From here out I am increasing the time period between planting to three weeks at the very least. I don't like to disagree with the book but there it is.

While on the subject I wonder if you've ever noted another thing about writers of articles in the garden magazines and daily papers? No, I'm not implying anything about these experts. I read their writings very carefully and find they are a great help to an ignoramus with a dirty thumb. But you know—even Homer nods. Sometimes these experts take their pen in hand and suggest some new varieties of carrots, or tomatoes, or green peas. In glowing terms they describe the values and virtues of the new varieties and give the names. It all reads so pleasantly that you feel you simply must have a try at the novelty. So you make a careful note of the name and go up town and over to Monterey to the hardware stores or seed stores and hunt through the seed displays. Not a packet of the new variety to be found! You come home, get out your catalogues and do some research work. Not a sign or a hint that any of these concerns can offer you any objective evidence to help you solve your problem. If the writer has been sufficiently convincing you write to two or three of the seed companies. Regretfully they inform you they are not familiar with the variety of seed in question. So that's that.

Suggestion to suggestors of new seed varieties. Tell us where you can get some!

Moonshiner's Gal Has Only Two More Week Ends

The Moonshiner's Daughter, which has been delighting audiences weekly at California's First Theatre, Monterey, plays tomorrow night and Sunday night, May 29, 30, and the following weekend, June 5, 6, when it will close to be followed on Thursday night, June 10, by the opening of Lola Montez, written especially for the First Theatre by Melcena Burns Denny and directed by Frances Dills.

Enthusiastic praise has been given to The Moonshiner's Daughter during its successful run at the old Monterey Theatre. Letters have been received by the Denny-Watrous management from many out-of-town visitors who have seen the show, including a note from Dr. Dorothy Kaucher of the San Jose State College, in which the learned holder of several degrees says that she never enjoyed a show more and that such laughter as it affords is something to cheer a worried world, an achievement on the part of management and Troupers of the Gold Coast.

But four performances remain of the popular melodrama with its hilarious olio following the show. Tickets may be secured from Staniford's Drug Store.

POPPY PRIZES

Prizes for the Poppy Day sale were all won by Sunset School students. Joann Leslie, sixth grade, won honorable mention by selling 100 poppies; she received a gift which was donated by the Der Ling shop.

The Wonder of Water

Because water is so much a part of our daily lives we scarcely give it a thought, yet it is one of the supreme wonders of the world. Water covers nearly three-fourths of the earth's surface and makes up 80% of all living matter. Every second some 16,000,000 tons of it are rising from the earth in the form of vapor and every second 16,000,000 tons are falling. Somewhere in the world it is raining or snowing today.

We in California fully appreciate the value of rain, but rain as a great fact of Nature has never been sufficiently glorified. As one writer puts it, "the scheme of rain in itself is one of enormous purification. It realizes the dream of some transcendent hygienist: it scrubs the sky. Its giant brooms and mops seem to reach the starry rafters and starless corners of the cosmos; it is a cosmic spring-cleaning."

Rain, arriving upon the earth in tiny drops, becomes the life stream of the world and it is the work of public water systems to gather this gift of Nature and deliver it safely and cheaply to all who want it. This great work of gathering, storing and delivering has been going on for a long time and it is a recognized fact the world over that the public water supplies of the United States are the safest on earth.

what it takes to handle
19 MILLION
CALLS A DAY

1. Down the line come telephone instruments...your first link with an amazing system. They're sensitive and complex—but just a small part of the facilities required to connect your home with millions of others—and handle nineteen million calls a day. That's Pacific Telephone's present average. In 1940 it was 11,000,000 calls a day.

2. Intricate switching equipment like this must be practically custom made and installed before telephones can be used. You've probably never seen it...but it's on the job every time you make a call. And there's still more to the story. Land and buildings and other equipment must be provided — all of it's expensive.

3. "Roadways of speech"... telephone lines and cables...have to be ready to carry the calls. There's nearly fourteen million miles of wire now at work in the West...and more is being added every day. Handling more calls than ever in our history keeps all our facilities mighty busy—along with the telephone people who man them.

4. Where does the money come from? Millions of new working dollars...needed to extend and improve service...must come, not from telephone bills, but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. This depends on the sale of our services at fair and adequate prices.

Artists Like Peninsula

Artists are still coming into our midst, in spite of all the publicity we get about being stuffy, overgrowing ourselves, and losing our grip on village life. They will swim, fish, hike, and learn of the intricacies of Boy Scout craft.

Reception For Barcelonian

Charming, enthusiastic Jose Canas was the guest of honor at a tea given at the art gallery on Tuesday afternoon, with walls hung with the drawings of Mr. Canas and photographs of his sculpture. Gaily conversing in halting English, and in Spanish with any who would try, Senor Canas pronounced that he is a modern sculptor, and that he prefers the work of Aristide Maillol above all others. Asked if he were in Spain during the civil war he said that he was but refused to talk politics. Being from Barcelona, however, he must have his convictions. After the unveiling of his statue at the Mission on Sunday, he plans to go to Mexico where he has many artist friends.

Hostesses for the tea were Hilda Randolph, Kay Rodgers, Louise Wiese, and Mrs. Frances McComus. Mrs. Wiese was pouring. Among the guests gathered to honor the Spanish sculptor were: Lee Randolph, Amy Gould, Richard Hagedorn, Maxine Albro, Zenas Potter, Richard Lofton, Armin Hansen, Paul Mays, Ed Kincaid, Nora Grabil, Father O'Connell, and a group of handsome instructors from the Presidio language school, Major Frederick Stephens, Captain George Fergeson, Lt. Gaston Poitou, and Remedios Miranda.

A gay reception was held at the Pat Wall gallery Sunday afternoon previewing the gay paintings of Dan Harris who does extraordinary things with color and with his fantastic reconstructions. A particularly wonderful one was the Souvenirs and Indiscretions in which a gloved hand, long beads, feathers and other symbolic parapernalia were caged together in a huge black frame; the gray gallery walls were delighted with the Relics for Future Reference hung upon them.

Handsome Mr. Harris, in huge silver belt and sandals, moved among his friends and guests, amusing everyone with stories about his paintings and giving away their earlier titles. Some of the guests gathered to honor Mr. Harris were Mrs. Vernon Kellogg and her daughter, Jean Kellogg, Commander and Mrs. Howell Armor, Richard Hagedorn, Mrs. Marian Brueck, Bill Mercer, Susan Wall, Henry Miller, Marie Short, Jake Kenny, Robert Kelly, Star Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fassett, and down from San Francisco were James Broughton, Kermit Sheets, Margaret Rosenblatt, Eugenie Gershoy, and Eileen McGovern from King City.

Statue Clean-up

Carmel members of the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce Ed Keeley, Stafford Hughes, Jack Mathys and Max Taplin invited President David Stevens to attend their clean-up committee workout at the Father Junipero Sera statue in Carmel Woods last Saturday. After a hard workout by all concerned it can now be reported that the historic landmark by Joe Mora is now visible from the street. All Carmel residents can again use it as a direction post for visitors, and find their way by it, themselves.

Carmel in the news again. Quote Vogue: "Not far away from Pebble Beach is the charming town of Carmel, where a man in a green velvet sports coat, walking with a woman in shorts made from gunny sack, wouldn't be conspicuous. Close by is Monterey, where the visitors from Pebble Beach and Carmel go to the movies and to the restaurant on the fishing dock." We think it must be the tourists who dream up the gunny sack, thinking it's Carmelish.

Large Ranch Bought

One of the last large holdings in the lower Carmel Valley was sold recently by Gladys Dixon to Edison Holt of Pebble Beach and San Francisco; the ranch is the old Eugene Marble place and consists of approximately 2,000 acres. Mr. and Mrs. Holt plan on making the valley their permanent home, and should be settled some time this autumn.

Girl Scout Activities

The Girl Scouts of Troop 10 have finished packing and mailing two clothing kits for two European girls which will be distributed by the American Friends Service Committee.

All the girls of Troop 10 were the guests of Gladys McCloud at her shop for girls and teens, where they discussed fashion and suitable styles as part of the final requirement test they must pass to win a Clothing Badge.

On Friday the same troop is invited to Mrs. Carol McKenney's home for a special tea. Leaders Mrs. Julian von Meier and Mrs. Paul Chedester will also attend.

Fashion Show

Harriet Duncan did it again, with an around the globe travel show which was tops in chic value and planned organization. Miss Duncan, wearing a smart brown and white striped ticking duster did her usual smooth job of commentary. Five models, Mrs. Margo Bauer, Miss Peggy Riker, Mrs. Margaret Luker, Mrs. Margo Foote, and Mrs. A. J. Hart, displayed the traveling costumes.

Place cards with fascinating names like Pago Pago, Paris, and Hong Kong radiating off in bright colors from the green center point of Carmel were placed at each table, and the first clothes shown by the models were farewell numbers, the clothes they would say goodbye to Carmel in and hello to Rio. They were interchangeable ensembles, capsule wardrobes of blouses, skirts, coats, gloves, scarves and corsage, blending in color and wonderful for changing with other things. Pleated navy blue with cream wool, an imported woolen skirt with golden hooded coat, a Glen plaid suit with lipstick red washable Mocha gloves, red flowers and a little traveling case were some of the going away outfits. For lounging in the air, you might don an ensemble of pink and black striped top, black pajama pants, with a light pink robe tossed about the outfit.

And now the plane has landed; you are stepping out into the warm climate of Jamaica. You might appear in an off the shoulder blouse, red skirt, long yellow silk stole, with golden purse and sandals. You might wander the beach in a three piece outfit of striped ticking jacket and divided skirt with white blouse or go to the club in a white linen skirt with brightly colored striped silk blouse. Opening up your light, flight-conditioned bag you would find it tissue packed with stockings, blouses, pearls, scarves, all essentials to vary your outfits, and all kinds of nylon lingerie in the way of nighties, slips, jamettes, camisoles and panties, using nylon because it is light and needs no ironing. Now that you've arrived, you've discovered that with planning for color and for the right material, you've gotten in all the essentials and you've still kept to weight requirements.

The NB Flower shop was responsible for the lovely corsages worn by the models, and the Collins shop supplied the hand bags. Mr. Jamil and Mr. Mark of the El Paseo Beauty Studio did Mrs. Hart's and Mrs. Bauer's coiffures. Oh, yes, and there were ten men at the show this time.

Carmel Turn-Out

The second annual Tri-County Horse Show and Race Meet will find a great number of Carmel entries riding, jumping and displaying style. A great many more will be on the sidelines watching their highly trained friends cavort about. The show will take place at the Pebble Beach stables on May 29, 30 and 31, and will be under the management of Richard Collins and Rudy Davis.

Garden Party

Gathered around the pool at Noel Sullivan's Hollow Hills Farm were members and their families of the Monterey Symphony Orchestra enjoying a Sunday afternoon buffet picnic given them by the Monterey County Symphony Association with Dr. Howard Clark as chairman of arrangements. The children probably had more fun than anyone as a few of the hardy ones braved the pool and had a fine swim for themselves.

Monday night was the last rehearsal of the season unless a summer orchestra is organized.

FIELD DAY PHOTOGRAPHY

There will be two field trips for all camera fans tomorrow, meeting on the south side of the park; the first at 9:00 a. m. to go along the coast road and the second at 5:00 p. m. for sunlight pictures at Monterey. "They got rice all over my driveway..."

"A nice new convertible came wheezing into my station a few weeks ago, carrying a young couple and a 'Just Married' sign. Looked like the bride was ready to cry.

"It sounded like spark plug trouble to me. I took a look—and sure enough, a couple of spark plug cables had vibrated loose. I set them tight, checked their oil and water . . . and they were on their way to Carmel. And I wound up sweeping rice out of the driveway . . .

"They got back just the other day, left their car for a Shellubrication and oil change—and treated me as if I were the Justice of the Peace who'd married them!"

With Zoe

Every Monday evening the eyes of the prancing CAROUSEL horse in the Carmel Valley look down upon a buffet table spread with red checked cloth, massed with flowers, and set with beans cooked by Kay, cold turkey and beef, and other wonderful buffet eatables. Take the 12 mile drive out and watch from the CAROUSEL windows while the shadows slant across the valley and darkness comes down. Monday night is buffet time, very informal, with lots of table hopping and second helpings.

You don't have to run away to an island to get a glimpse of exotic things, just walk into KIP'S grocery store on Ocean Avenue and look around and you'll see ripe cherries, bursting watermelons, fresh pineapples with diamond-cut hides, and red-hued bananas. In the meantime at the meat counter, they are selling squabs, sweetbreads, and calves' liver, while on weekends you get the super service of fried chicken all ready for you with potato salad or enchiladas to toss in for your beach picnics.

Just about the time Manuel and Felicitas got to this country from Patzcuaro they had conceived the idea of a restaurant of their own. They planned, worked, and saved. Then one day the doors opened to MANUEL'S MEXICAN RESTAURANT. Now it's an institution. Cars whip over the hill to unload eager diners, photographers swing their cameras on the artistic decor for international magazines, neighbors drift in to munch tacos and just chat. Once you've had dinner there, you'll know why. It's a combination of delicious food and great unstudied charm, and you'll find yourself paying frequent calls.

It's beach time, mountain time, valley time, and wherever you are you'll be picnicking and barbecuing and getting sand on your weenies and gravel on your steaks. To help you to more fun and better picnic and barbeceue maneuvering, the CARMEL HARDWARE has all kinds of supplies in the way of charcoal brickettes, new grills and grates, long giant forks, and hamburger and weenie roasters. Save your fingers and your food with all this picnic equipment, and see how nice it is, too, to taste things minus the tang of earth and sand in them.

The corner of Dolores and Eighth streets is really a functional place and a shopping center: the CARMEL DRIVE IN GROCERY will take care of all your canning needs and supplies, and the CARMEL DRIVE IN MARKET will take care of your fresh vegetables and fruits, specializing in Carmel Valley strawberries, and selling them at exceptionally low prices. So go in to see Tony Kastros, and he will escort you about and help you with everything you need.

What do they think about Carmel back home? Just what you send them: excellent Kodachrome cards of Carmel and the surrounding country, or Morton etchings from EL FUMADOR. Then there is that fascinating little form letter done in handwriting and high humor which tells all about it, and gives everyone back home the real low-down on Carmel.

Sensational coats in sensational colors are to be found at MAXINE'S DRESS SHOP on Dolores street. The coats are short with a Mandarin slit in the back and a cutaway front, and they come in the brilliant colors of jade green and ming gold. They are perfect for tossing over a dress, an evening gown, for topping a pair of slacks, or helping out with a suit. Every well put together wardrobe needs a few extras to give it vision, expansion, color touches and a lack of stuffiness; these jade green and ming gold coats are just right for the extra touch.

The POKE ABOUT NOOK on Ocean Avenue, which has so many fascinating shelves and glittering corners, continues its sale with twenty-five per cent off on all copper, inlaid wood, pottery, handwrought aluminum, silk scarves, and hand tailored wool ties. Think of all the exciting shopping you can do there, all the presents you can save up for big occasions, and all the little ones you can make right now. And it's always nice to present yourself with a gift, too. So take advantage of the sale at the POKE ABOUT NOOK.

Particularly if it's a foggy Sunday afternoon like it was last week, you'll be glad to know about the open studio of EDDA M. HEATH (PAPPEL) on the corner of Thirteenth and Lincoln streets. From 1:00 p. m. until 5:00 p. m. every Sunday afternoon is studio time, and everyone is cordially invited to wander in and view the marine oils and landscape paintings. You will have an enjoyable visit and add an artistic note to your Sunday afternoon itinerary, and also have done a good deed for your Sunday fog morale.

The girl with style is the girl with the over-all pattern of perfection and this includes her wedding ring. Mr. Bauer at the HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT is designing some of a traditional gold band, widened, widened for dramatic effect, and suddenly sprinkled with tiny Burma rubies zigzagging like stars in the Milky Way. Clever Mr. Bauer has also composed a cocktail ring with cosmopolitan flair. A genuine heart-shaped aquamarine is placed in heavy gold and clustered with Burma rubies on either side. Your hands are the setting for these custom designed rings which complete your personal style interpretation.

Now that it's time to think of graduation presents, it will simplify matters to send attractive boxes of candy from the HOUSE OF HANSEL AND GRETEL. There are boxes of every variety, with all kinds of candy, and something to meet everyone's fancy. And if it is to be mailed, that service is taken care of for you too by the HOUSE OF HANSEL AND GRETEL.

We've been saying it for a long time and we say it again; it's bathing suit time which means it's dangerous time for any little bulges that are clinging persistently to your hips, thighs, or just anywhere about you. Let the STAUFFER SYSTEM help you get rid of them now before it's too late and you're ready to hop into that suit and just don't dare do it because of your un-goddess like appearance. You simply can't go wrong at the STAUFFER SYSTEM, a system so popular that the whole country knows about it and has the women flocking about its three hundred shops. All this popularity must be deserved, and it hardly has to be paid for: twelve treatments for $15.00, and twenty-five for $25.00. Phone Della Vanney at 2101-W and make an appointment now.

When you go dinner dancing, these are the things which are most important: your best girl, good friends, a congenial crowd, superb food, pleasant service, lovely surroundings and music to which you can really dance.

Although we leave it to you to supply the first two, the Del Monte Lodge does the rest. Bill Parker is Maitre d' and you will remember he has been presiding over Peninsula fun both at the Lodge and the old Bali Room for twenty-five years. He will take care of your reservations and see to it that you receive every comfort.

There's more room now and air-cooling has been installed. If you do not wish dinner, there is only a dollar per person cover charge. Bill Pierce has the Peninsula's favorite dance band and the chances are you cannot stump him on a request.

Make your plans now to hold your Saturday night party at the Del Monte Lodge.

SCOUTING The SHOPS

One of the neatest graduation gifts we can think of would be one or several of the classic little Peter Pauper Press books at the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP on Ocean Avenue. $2.000 each, the books are of poetry, essays, novels, each has its box, and each has a marvelously designed cover of art paper. For instance, the poems of Emily Dickenson are encased in a silk screen-like paper of pink flowers on bluish green background in a neat dark green box, and there is a Shakespeare of mauve and gold cover in a gold box. Classic titles, and classic presentation.

Summer apparel in half sizes will please the women who don't have the average figure. BALZER'S CARMEL DEPARTMENT STORE carries a wonderful line of Mynette's and Marie Dressler's, smart dresses in summer materials. There are spun dresses with jackets, in blue or chartreuse print, cool looking linettes, cotton prints and stripes, slick sharkskin, and the smartest of all summer wear, plaid ginghams. Let BALZER'S CARMEL DEPARTMENT STORE outfit you for summer days of patio lounging and avenue wandering.

Featuring Italian imports from Rome and Roman provinces, GUMP'S has beautiful displays of Siena-Green chinaware, Padova pottery sets, and other interesting china in sets and odd pieces; is showing basket nests of raffia rimmed with colors, bucket nests, and standing raffia trays of carafe and glasses for rustic wines; there are husky shopping bags, and voguish-looking shoes and slippers of raffia in woven colors. All the imports from hand-inspired Italy have been gathered together in displays to please your artistic sense as you will see on GUMP'S shelves and tables.

Exquisite is the word for the gentle forest of Ming trees, each tree set in its delicate pottery bowl at the FLOR DE MONTEREY on Franklin in Monterey. The Ming trees are in wonderful pale colors of pastel misty greens, yellows and grays, and underneath each tree is the figure of a wandering Chinese scholar or poet, taking solace and inspiration under the Ming tree. To give grace and a faint touch of the Orient to your rooms, to enhance a table which you might have set with peach blossoms, chop sticks and oriental food, these Ming trees would be perfectionist touches.

Raving beauties are the Servel refrigerators in five different models (one is four cubic feet, two models are six cubic feet, two models are eight cubic feet) at ROBERT WALDO HICKS on Junipero street. Toss them into a beauty contest and they'd win, doors closed. But just for fun, fling the doors open and you find they have brains, too: frozen food storage compartments, plenty of ice cubes, easy to clean, vegetable crispers, and they know how to be absolutely quiet. You see they are beautiful, useful, and never open their mouths. In fact, they are known as the refrigerators you hear about but don't hear. Have a close-up view of these proud beauties at ROBERT WALDO HICKS.

Shelves are piled high with books waiting your approval at the book den at HOLMAN'S in Pacific Grove. New titles have been added to the collection, and further reductions have been made, so you are sure to find all your favorites and find it easy to buy them. There are still quite a few sets left, lots of specialized art books, hundreds of fiction titles; wander into the Book Den, and spend a leisurely and enjoyable hour browsing around. If you are a true book lover, there's nothing more fun than handling books, roaming over titles, and wandering out with two or three choice numbers under your arm.

For interesting and unusual graduation gifts, the CARMEL ART SHOP suggests costume jewelry, ceramics and silver. With a variety of color and style, the shop offers you the best products of the most skillful Peninsula artists: plastic pins by Rudneff, ceramic pins and earrings by Sarah Chase, ceramic pins by Margaret Lang, ceramic pins and tie clips, earrings and buckles, thick and stunning with gold by the Blair sisters, and smart modern silvery by Rosene. Help your graduate start out with the chic instead of the shoddy, the smart instead of the ordinary with a true art gift from the CARMEL ART SHOP.

When your out of town friends arrive in Carmel, or you have a small intimate party of ten people or so, SADE'S is the place to go; the English Room, mellow with dark furniture and candles, prints and fireplace, will give special attention to your special party. Not functioning for banquets, SADE'S hospitality is for the small party; it caters to intimate groups and you can be sure of special personal attention at SADE'S when you take your friends there to dine.

Again we remind you that a lot of graduating students are going to be delighted with a graduation watch; the VILLAGE JEWELERS has received a new shipment of Gruens, Walthams, and Wittnauers. They have never had such a complete stock of watches, all of them fine lines and definitely guaranteed for accuracy. There is something special, too, about getting a graduation gift in Carmel if you're giving it to a Carmel graduate. So be sure those young graduates don't race off to college minus a watch strapped to their wrist, and be sure to choose one from the fine collection at the VILLAGE JEWELERS.

Have the best Memorial Day picnic you've ever imagined with box lunches tailor made from the VILLAGE CORNER menu. Sandwiches, salads, ice cream packed in dry ice, anything you want, whipped together, neatly boxed and presented to you for first rate munching at seaside or mountain pool. And take note, all Carmel, the one and only public telephone is now installed between the VILLAGE CORNER CANDY SHOP and the VILLAGE CORNER. While dashing to the P. O. or the P. T., you might remember, it being so convenient, that VILLAGE CORNER CANDIES are a magnificent memento to mail out for any occasion.

Are you remembering to shop for the two day holiday that will shortly be staring you in the face? Before all those doors close on you, get into MAC'S POULTRY SHOP and stock up in time on your needed holiday supply of fryers, roasters, and fricassees, and those large delicious Tom Turkeys. Something new and special to get your orders in on time for are the new young fryer turkeys; they'll really give your holidays a lift. So, remember MAC'S POULTRY SHOP for the two day holiday.

All the rugged beauty of the famous Highlands coast, the pine trees and curving coast and blue water, stretch beneath your windows as you drink cocktails at the HIGHLANDS INN, in the chartreuse and chinese red cocktail lounge, or dine in the circular dining room, window walled, with superb food before you and all the incredible view below you. The dining room is open every night from 6:00 to 8:00 p. m., and you will have a delightful drive to the HIGHLANDS INN and a delightful time dining there. And you will be glad to know that the HIGHLANDS INN is open all year round.

Brett Is Back

Breaking all Weston cross-continental records, Brett Weston arrived Sunday afternoon at his father's home on Wild Cat Hill in four breathless days of driving in his camera truck. Mr. Weston said that his trip east was highly successful and plans are swinging ahead for a portfolio of his original prints with a foreword by Nancy Newhall. While in the east Mr. Weston was given a preview of the state department film done by Willard van Dyke on Edward Weston. The picture is not quite finished, the musical score being incomplete, but Mr. Weston said the photography was magnificent, particularly the shots around Point Lobos, and our entire coast, the purpose of the film being to show Edward Weston's way of working, and the places where he has spent most of his time photographing.

Mr. Weston's closing comment on the east coast was that it is splendid for two weeks but who would want to live there when they can come back to Carmel.

Two Piano, Violin Concert Enjoyed At Forest Hill Hotel

Last Sunday evening Peninsula music lovers enjoyed a two piano and violin program presented by Miss Angie Machado, Miss Georgia Niklett and Mr. Verne Marceux, concert master of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, in the Fireside Lounge of the Forest Hill Hotel.

Miss Machado again proved her versatility in arranging the graceful program, playing with great feeling, the first piano in the opening group, two movements of an Arensky two piano work. Mr. Marceux followed with the Handel Concerto No 3, beautifully played with Miss Machado's accompaniment. Then Miss Niklett played brilliantly the first movement of the Grieg Concerto, Miss Machado playing the orchestral accompaniment at the second piano.

Mr. Marceux then played Dvorak's Songs My Mother Taught Me, arranged by the violinist, Schubert's Ave Maria, and Kreisler's La Gitana.

The program closed with a pleasing group at the two pianos, Miss Machado accompanied by Miss Niklett, Waltz of the Flowers, Tschaikovsky, Tango by Albeniz, and Malaguena. These lively and popular numbers demanded an encore, the artists responding with Jarnefelt's Praeludium.

MOLLER IS NEW MANAGER

In an expansion step, Mason Brothers, long established Oakland and San Francisco investment firm, and member of the San Francisco Stock Exchange, announce the opening of a Monterey office under the management of Frank D. Moller. The new office will be in the First National Bank Building.

Moller, who has lived in Carmel the last two years, is of a pioneer family that played an important part in early development of Oakland.

MOBILE UNIT CHANGES HEADQUARTERS HERE

The Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association mobile unit, scheduled to be here, Saturday, June 5, to take chest and heart X-rays of Carmel citizens, will be set up at the Fire House instead of Nielsen's parking lot as previously announced.

This service is for everyone. All are urged to make use of it since the X-ray can discover in early stages lung and heart impairment in the apparently healthy. Early diagnosis and treatment greatly increase possibility of cure, and lessen spread of infection, Helena E. Tavernetti, executive secretary, points out, adding that co-operation on the part of all citizens in this check-up is necessary to the success of the project.

New non-fiction on the display table: Armstrong, The Calculated Risk; Conklin, A Treasury of Science Fiction; Evatt, The United Nations; Isherwood, Lions and Shadows; Lamb, The March of Muscovy; Steinbeck, A Russian Journal; Williams, A Streetcar Named Desire.

New fiction now in circulation: Christie, There Is a Tide; Kutak, I Am the Cat; Adams, Plunder; Yerby, The Golden Hawk.

Traffic Signal Promised For High School

A flashing yellow warning signal for the highway intersection at Carmel High School is on the way, Superintendent Stuart Mitchell announced Tuesday. Long a necessity, such a signal was prominent among suggestions by Carmel High School students at their meeting as acting city council, May 5. In a letter from L. H. Gibson, district engineer, the Division of Highways Headquarters at San Luis Obispo states, "We are requesting a work order from the headquarters office to cover the cost of such an installation."

"Your guess is as good as mine as to how soon the signal will be erected," the superintendent said, "but apparently the machinery has begun to move."

Father Bandini Works On Dante Revision At Il Marzocco

We asked if Dante seemed archaic to modern readers. "I have had many occasions to read his poetry in the original tongue to audiences who spoke only modern Italian," he said, "and they are often surprised to find it perfectly comprehensible. This is mostly due to his simple language: the Commedia contains a vocabulary of only 5,000 words. In contrast, Shakespeare used about 15,000, and modern English poetry employs about 25,000. Dante appeals to readers today also because of his intense realism."

He has been coming to Carmel for vacations since 1940, when he was stationed at a parish in Crockett, Contra Costa County. His interest in the Italian masters developed while he was professor of Latin and Greek at St. Andrew's College and Seminary in Rochester, New York.

"I have found Carmel a stimulating community to live in, in that the per capita personality is higher than possibly any other town in the United States," Father Bandini said as we were leaving. "You may possibly find a Browning student among chicken farmers almost anywhere, but the chances are better in Carmel."

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "That false claim — that ancient belief, that old serpent whose name is devil (evil), claiming that there is intelligence in matter either to benefit or to injure men—is pure delusion, the red dragon; and it is cast out by Christ, Truth, the spiritual idea, and so proved to be powerless" (p. 567).

THE LEAST WE CAN DO FOR ANDY IS TO GIVE HIM A LANDSLIDE VOTE AT THE POLLS TUESDAY!

Keep Supervisor Andy Jacobsen On The Job!

For sixteen years Andy has worked intelligently and ably in the interests of Monterey County. His fellow supervisors have honored him repeatedly by electing him Chairman of the Board.

The business-like administration of county affairs is, in large measure, due to Andy's vision and his down-to-earth way of getting things done.

The persons whose signatures appear in this advertisement believe that Andy's usefulness is growing each year and that his continued guidance will be to the advantage of every taxpayer in Monterey County.

There are no great issues at stake in this election. It is simply a matter of whether the taxpayers want to retain as supervisor for his district a man who has proved himself over and over again as an extremely capable public servant.

The least we can do for Andy is to give him a LANDSLIDE VOTE AT THE POLLS NEXT TUESDAY!
